KGS CASE STUDIES

- KGS assisted the Chief Digital and Artificial Intelligence Office in accelerating the DoD's adoption of data, analytics, and AI by building a strong foundation for data, analytic, and AI-enabled capabilities to be developed and fielded at scale. KGS also provided program management, business operations, acquisition, security engineering, testing, automation, strategic communications support, and training and workforce solutions.
- KGS was instrumental in developing enterprise cloud technology for the DoD's Cloud Computing Office, their innovative center. Koniag provides business, acquisition, operational, technical and programmatic support for the establishment and operation of the DoD's enterprise cloud organization to include comprehensive IT support spanning Agile IT systems development and engineering, cloud infrastructure engineering, cyber security integration, Service component and Fourth Estate collaboration, Strategic Communications, and Business Operations.

SPRY METHODS CASE STUDIES

- Spry partnered with the Army's Automated Parachute Management (APM) Working Group to modernize a decades-old, manual asset tracking process for T-11 parachutes. In just a few weeks, Spry Methods developed and deployed the MAT-APM proof-of-concept—a cloud-based, mobile solution using passive RFID and real-time analytics to transform Aerial Delivery lifecycle management. This innovative tool dramatically improved safety, accountability, and readiness.
- As part of Spry Method's operations and maintenance support to the USDA Integrated Acquisition System (IAS), Spry led the successful stabilization and modernization of the agency's high-visibility procurement environment—supporting over 5,600 users across 50+ federal organizations. Spry implemented a proactive system monitoring and issue resolution framework that achieved 100% system uptime during operational hours, while resolving 97% of system tickets within SLA timeframes.
